2 STAFF

(1) STAFF DURING 2014

In January 2014 the Office had a total of 23 established staff. The Office had 12 legal staff including the Attorney General and Solicitor General and 11 administrative support staff.

The legal officers employed in the Office hold law degrees from various universities in New Zealand and the University of the South Pacific. They each have been admitted to practice law in the jurisdictions where they studied and also here in Tonga.

The Office continues to be challenged with the lack of experience of its young staff, however close supervision and mentoring has allowed the Crown counsels to gain experience quickly.

Both the legal and administrative support staff contributed well to the efficient operation of the Office during 2014.

(2) STAFF MATTERS

LEGAL STAFF

In April 2014 the Attorney General, using his Constitutional powers of independence to administer his office, created the role of Director of Public Prosecutions. This was endorsed by His Majesty in Privy Council and also His Majesty's Cabinet. Accordingly, all criminal prosecutions are now the responsibility of the Director of Public Prosecutions, rather than the Attorney General. Mr 'Aminiasi Kefu was appointed on 14 March 2014 to this role, after completing 5 years appointment as Solicitor General.

On 14 April 2014 Mr. 'Aminiasi Kefu, Solicitor General completed his second term as the Solicitor General role. He left the role to become the Director of Public Prosecutions.

In June 2014, the Attorney General, Mr Neil Adsett, resigned from his post based on personal reasons. His Majesty the King in Privy Council, after receiving advice from the Judicial Appointments and Discipline Panel, then appointed Mr 'Aminiasi Kefu, Director of Public Prosecutions, as the Acting Attorney General on 19 June 2014.

On 31 October 2014, the Public Service Commission appointed Mr Sione Finau Sisifa, Assistant Senior Crown Counsel, as the new Solicitor General. Mr Sisifa will be responsible, under the Acting Attorney General, for the provision of legal advice to Government Ministries and Agencies, the representation of the Crown in civil and land cases, legislative drafting, community legal literacy, and as Chief Executive Officer, for the corporate services for the Attorney General's Office.

Due to the limited number of Crown counsels, the Director of Public Prosecutions is housed in the Attorney General's Office, and so the Crown counsel also perform the role of Crown prosecutors.

On 15 July 2014, Mr. Tevita Kilisimasi 'Aho, was appointed by His Majesty's Cabinet to the post Assistant Crown Counsel.

On 18 July 2014, Ms. Sela Halaevalu Aleamotu'a, Assistant Legal Officer was permanently transferred from the Ministry of Commerce, Tourism and Labour on a promotion to the Attorney General's Office as an Assistant Crown Counsel.

On 23 July 2014 Ms. Susana Fineanganofo Kausea, returning scholar was appointed by His Majesty's Cabinet to the post Assistant Crown Counsel.

On 20 August 2014, Ms. Mafi Tu'inukuafe, returning scholar, was appointed by His Majesty's Cabinet to the post Executive Legal Officer.

SUPPORT STAFF

The Office did not recruit any new administrative support staff in 2014.

STAFF RESIGNATIONS

On 11 June 2014, Ms. Joan Puloka, Assistant Crown Counsel resigned. Ms. Puloka had served the Office for 5 years. She left the Office to join her family in Fiji.

The Attorney General's Office continues to face the same challenges of training its young and inexperienced Crown counsel.

The Office continues its programme on expediting experience for its Crown counsel through internal law presentations, assigning two person prosecution teams to criminal trials, on-the-job training, especially regarding drafting legal documents and thinking strategically. Crown counsel are also benefitting when allocated to represent the Office and Government in national, regional and international trainings, and also official meetings.

(5) MEETINGS AND WORKSHOPS HOSTED BY THE OFFICE

(a) Tonga National Human Rights Consultation Workshop

The Office co-facilitated the first Tonga National Human Rights Consultation Workshop, held at Fa'onelua Convention Centre on 10-14 March 2014. Figure 4 Law Enforcement Agencies representatives (Attorney General's Office, 15 August 2014)

(6) INTERNATIONAL LAW MATTERS

The Attorney General's Office has been heavily involved in international law matters for Government. The following are the pertinent international law matters:

(a) Asia Pacific Group on Money Laundering

The Office represented the Kingdom in the Annual General Meeting that was held in Macao, China. Tonga is co-leading two typologies projects on transhipment of illicit drugs through the Pacific with Vanuatu and the recovery of proceeds of crimes from corruption with Papua New Guinea.

The Acting Attorney General and the Director of Public Prosecutions continues to be the Chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Activities.

(b) Office of the Human Commission on Human Rights

The Office is working with the Prime Minister's Office, the Ministry of Internal Affairs and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade, with the assistance of the Human Rights Advisor of the Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat and the RRRT OF THE Secretariat of the Pacific Community in preparation for the next round of the Universal Periodic Review in 2016. A national human rights consultation process was held in June 2014, and work is now focussed on signing the core human rights conventions, submitting the first state report under the convention on rights of the child, and consideration for the establishment of a human rights desk and human rights institution. The Office is working with the Ministry of Internal Affairs on the final proposals for ratifying the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women.

(c) World Trade Organisation

The Office assisted the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade in the review of Tonga's trade policy in February 2014. The Office is also assisting with the negotiations of Pacific Island Countries Trade Agreement and the PACER Plus negotiations with Australia and New Zealand.

(d) International Committee of the Red Cross

The Office is finalising a draft policy paper to Cabinet proposing the ratification of the Rome Statute on the International Criminal Court. The Office will submit this to the new Government in 2015, and hopefully it will ratify the Rome Statute in 2015.

(e) UN Convention against Corruption

The Office is considering technical assistance that is being offered by the United Nations Development Programme to assist the Kingdom accede to the UNCAC.

(f) Council of Europe Convention on Cybercrime

The Council of Europe has invited Tonga to be the first Pacific Island to sign the Council of Europe Convention on Cybercrime. As a result the Acting Attorney General and Director of Public Prosecutions has been invited to attend the 12 Plenary Meeting of the Cybercrime Convention Committee, and also the Global Action on Cybercrime Project (GLACY Project) Steering Committee Meeting, held on 1-3 December 2014 in Strasbourg, France. Tonga will receive technical assistance and training on cybercrime initiatives.

(7) STAFF HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

AGO continued to work closely with the Public Service Commission in various human resource related programs.

3 LEGAL ADVICE

The Office continued to provide legal advice to Government Ministries, Departments and Agencies. This was provided in written form in a timely manner and where necessary, legal advice was provided orally or through email.

The Solicitor General issues most of the legal advice, with the Attorney General being referred legal advice matters when necessary. All the 12 Crown counsels are called upon when necessary to conduct research and provide legal advice when required.

With regards to law reporting, the Office is working on updating the availability of the Tonga Law Reports. The Office has recently produced the 2012 Tonga Law Reports, and hope to print the 2013 Tonga Law Reports early in 2015, and the 2014 Tonga Law Reports in mid-2015.

There remains a challenge of access to electronic legal databases due to costs, and also office space for the law library. Furthermore, the Office is considering technical assistance to establish an electronic case management system.

The Office issued 261 written legal during 2014. Schedule III sets out the number of advices issued to Ministries, Departments and Agencies.

4 LEGISLATION

(1) THE LAW COMMITTEE

The Office's legislative drafting team was led by the Attorney General and supported by the Solicitor General and one Crown Counsel, one Assistant Crown Counsel and one translator.

One Crown counsel completed the legislative drafting training for the Post-Graduate Diploma in Legislative Drafting, offered by the University of the South Pacific, making it 9 Crown counsels in total to complete the program.

The year 2014 continued to be a busy legislative year. This was the last year of the 4 year term of the Legislative Assembly since 2011, and so this was the last opportunity for the Government to pass all their laws before the session ended at the end on 29 August 2014, in preparation for the 27 November 2014 national elections.

The Office again had a heavy legislative programme for 2014, with the drafting of 32 Acts and 4 subsidiary legislation.

During the year, significant legislation passed was a new Civil Aviation Act 2014 to provide a new and modern regulatory framework for the civil aviation industry. A new Fire and Emergency Act 2014 was also passed to provide for new fire services and emergency response services. Both Acts were provided with technical assistance to the relevant ministries from the World Bank and Australian counterparts, respectively. A new Food Act 2013, passed by the Legislative Assembly in 2013, was finally enacted after receiving Royal Assent in 2014, to provide for a regulatory framework to ensure food safety.

The Office continues to benefit from the efficiency and effectiveness of its electronic legislative template developed for drafting Tongan laws. All the laws are published in the website www.crownlaw.gov.to/cms, in both final and draft form. The public and relevant stakeholders are notified of new laws through the relevant Ministry and through email notifications from the Office. Where necessary, the Office has published in the local newspapers the new laws that are being processed or have been enacted for public submissions or dissemination.

The Office has also utilised social media through a Facebook page and a twitter account to provide updates on new laws, and other activities of the Office.

However, the main challenges in the Office's legislative drafting programme continue to be the time required to translate laws into Tongan, and also meeting Government's changing legislative priorities. Often in the Assembly, the Tongan translation is used as a political platform to either to criticise Government's proposed Bills or delay it.

Work continues on the finalisation of the consolidation of the laws of Tonga up to 2011. Since the resignation of the Attorney General, he has agreed to continue to drive the consolidation process. We are now hoping that the consolidation would be completed by end of 2015.

The Attorney General's Office continued to provide the secretariat duties to the Law Committee during the year. The Committee continued to meet during the year to consider amendments to existing laws and to vet new Bills to be approved by His Majesty's Cabinet and Privy Council for tabling before the Legislative Assembly, and also new draft regulations to be made by the relevant authorities.

The members of the Government Law Committee are as follows:

1) Minister for Justice and Public Enterprises (Chairman);

2) Deputy Prime Minister (Deputy Chairman);

3) Attorney General;

4) Minister of Police, Prisons and Fire Services;

5) Minister for Finance, National Planning and Revenue Services;

6) Chief Secretary and Secretary to Cabinet;

7) Solicitor General; and

8) Attorney General's Office, as Secretariat.

Depending on the issues discussed, the Law Committee co-opted persons from the relevant Government Ministries, Departments and Agencies to assist with the Law Committee's deliberations.

Schedule IV sets out the Bills and Schedule V sets out the Regulations, considered by the Law Committee, and subsequently enacted.

5 LITIGATION

(1) COURT OF APPEAL

In October 2014, His Majesty in Privy Council, after receiving advice from the Judicial Appointments and Discipline Panel, appointed Lord Tupou, a former Attorney General and Minister for Justice, and a former Crown Solicitor, as the first Tongan to be appointed to the Court of Appeal of Tonga. Lord Tupou first sat on the Court of Appeal during its Second Session from 20 to 31 October 2014.

The President of the Court of Appeal is Chief Justice Scott and the Court of Appeal bench consisted of Justices Burchett and Moore of Australia, and Justice Salmon and Handley of New Zealand. In 2014 the Crown was involved in 33.

(2) SUPREME COURT

In December 2014, the Lord Chief Justice, Michael Dishington Scott, will also be stepping down from his role, however he will continue as a non-resident part time Supreme Court Judge. His Majesty in Privy Council, after receiving advice from the Judicial Appointments and Discipline Panel, has appointed a new Chief Justice, from New Zealand, however employment arrangements are being finalised before a public announcement will be made in January 2015.

The Supreme Court will have a new Lord Chief Justice in January 2015, and the only other judge is Justice Charles Cato. A new Registrar of the Supreme Court was appointed being a former Magistrate and Vital Statistics officer.

(A) CRIMINAL CASES

Criminal cases continued to take up most of the litigation work of the legal staff.

The Office continues to enjoy a high conviction rate of around 80%. The number of cases being dealt with will now be heard in the Magistrate's Court, and so Crown prosecutors will now be prosecuting more in the Magistrate's Court. The prosecutions in the Supreme Court will be serious cases of violence, sexual offending and illicit drugs. The Director of Public Prosecutions and the Solicitor General were responsible for and led the prosecutions.

The following are the figures for criminal cases, in the Supreme Court at the end of 2014:

Pending Criminal Cases from Previous Years	165
New Cases during 2014	187
Total Criminal Cases for 2014	352
Total Criminal Cases Closed in 2014	168
Pending Cases	184

(B) CIVIL CASES

In the area of civil litigation, the Acting Attorney General and Director of Public Prosecutions has handled all the civil litigation.

Civil cases involving the Crown were also significant.

Pending Civil Cases from Previous Years	26
New Civil Cases for 2014	9
Total Civil Cases for 2014	35
Total Civil Cases Closed in 2014	13
Pending Civil Cases	22

(C) FAMILY MATTERS

The Supreme Court continued to refer family applications under its Family Jurisdiction to the legal staff to provide confidential Guardian Ad Litem reports in the best interests of the children. This work continues to be a significant part of the work of the legal staff. These are mainly applications for adoption of illegitimate children under the Maintenance of Illegitimate Children Act [Cap 30], and applications for guardianship of legitimate children under the Guardianship Act 2004.

During 2014 a total of 103 guardian ad litem reports were provided by legal staff to the Courts.

(3) LAND COURT

In the area of land litigation, the Acting Attorney General and Director of Public Prosecutions has handled all the land litigation.

The Land Court continued to have cases involving the Crown. The figures are as follows:

Pending Land Cases from Previous Years	32
New Land Cases during 2014	19
Total Land Cases for 2014	51
Total Land Cases Closed for 2014	8
Pending Land Cases	43

(4) MAGISTRATES COURT

With amendments made in 2012, most of the criminal workload is now handled by the enhanced jurisdiction of the Principal Magistrate, who is the only legally qualified Magistrate. The jurisdiction of the Magistrate's Court is to deal with criminal cases with a maximum sentence of not more than 3 years imprisonment or a fine of not more than $10,000.00. The Magistrate's Court (Amendment) Act 2012 created an enhanced jurisdiction where a magistrate can deal with offences beyond its jurisdiction but not impose sentences beyond 7 years imprisonment or a fine of more than $50,000.

Due to the shift of the criminal workload to the Magistrate's Court, the Director of Public Prosecutions and the Police Commissioner are now considering housing all criminal prosecutions in the Magistrate's Court and Supreme Court under the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

The main challenge is for the enhanced jurisdiction being used for dealing with the workload of criminal cases.

The Supreme Court, Land Court and Magistrate's Court continue to serve the whole of the Kingdom by circuit, but this depends on there being cases to be dealt in the remote island groups of the Niuas, 'Eua and the Ha'apai Islands.

(5) SIGNIFICANT CASES

(a) Taione v Tu'ivakano and ors, CV 2/13

This was an application for judicial review heard in the Supreme Court. The applicant is a member of parliament, who sought public law remedies against the Cabinet and the Crown on an allegation that Cabinet had unlawfully paid lease rental payments in advance to hereditary estate titleholders for the continuation of leases in the airport, contrary to the Constitution, the Land Act and the Public Finance Management Act. Cabinet and the Crown has paid the rent in advance to secure long term leases for the airport authority over the airport land part of hereditary estates, so that the World Bank could commit a multi-million project to upgrade Tonga's two main airports on Tongatapu and Vava'u. The Lord Chief Justice held that the plaintiff could not prove that the respondents had acted contrary to the Constitution, the Land Act or the Public Finance Management Act, and so dismissed the application, with no costs.

(b) Rex v Hala'ufia and ors, CR 35, 36, 91-93/13 and Rex v Manu, CR 37/13

The accused were charged with the manslaughter of Tongan born New Zealand police officer, Kali Fungavaka, in August 2012, in the Nuku'alofa Central Police Station. The five accused were all police officers who were on duty on the night as the Tactical Response Group, and who had arrested the deceased from outside a nightclub. The elected a trial by judge alone, which was heard before Cato J in April 2014. Another accused, a civilian detainee, who was also charged with manslaughter of the deceased when he punched the deceased after the deceased was put in the police cells. That accused was tried separately before a judge and jury, following the first trial.

The five police officers were charged on a joint enterprise basis, to have caused separate injuries that all materially caused the death of the deceased. Justice Cato did not accept that there was a joint enterprise, however he convicted two officers for manslaughter for two separate assaults on the deceased which he held were each a "material cause" of the death, and one police officer was convicted for common assault on the deceased.

One officer who was an inspector, was sentenced to 11 years imprisonment, with one year suspended for one year. The other officer who was convicted of manslaughter was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, with one year suspended for one year. The officer who was convicted of common assault was sentenced to 8 months imprisonment, which was fully suspended for 2 years, and he was also ordered to perform 110 hours of community service.

The civilian accused was acquitted by the jury of manslaughter, but the jury convicted him for grievous bodily harm. The jury seemed to accept that the accused's punch had exacerbated the deceased's brain haemorrhages, which was first caused by the police officers. The civilian accused was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment, but fully suspended on good behaviour.

The police inspector appealed to the Court of Appeal against his conviction and sentence for manslaughter. He claimed that Justice Cato was wrong to accept evidence of the one witness who saw him hit the deceased with a torch on the top of the head, which was not seen by anyone else, and that the trial judge had failed to give himself sufficient warning to be cautious with the witness' evidence because the witness was the father of the civilian accused. For the sentence, the police inspector claimed that more of his sentence should have been suspended because he was a first time offender and of his previous good behaviour.

The Court of Appeal dismissed both appeals. The Court held that the trial judge had given himself sufficient warning, and that the trial judge was fully aware of the circumstances of the witness's relation to the other civilian accused. As for the suspension, the Court held that the suspension of one year for a period of one year was appropriate given the severity of the offending.

(c) Public Service Commission v Fukofuka*, AC 7/13

This was an appeal by the Public Service Commission against the decision of the Lord Chief Justice that the employment of the respondent, as a former chief executive officer of education, was unlawfully terminated. The respondent was employed on a five year employment contract as a chief executive officer for education in 2007. In the lead up to the national elections in 2010, the Legislative Assembly amended the Public Service Act to provide that any public servant who registered to be a candidate in the national elections, would cease to be a public servant on the date of registration. The respondent argued that this amendment was not part of his original employment contract, and so the amendment could not be applied against him. He also argued that the amendment was retrospective and therefore against the Constitution, and so the respondent claimed that he remained a public servant and chief executive officer after the national elections, which he did not result in his election.

The Lord Chief Justice had agreed with the respondent, and held that the amendment did not apply to the respondent. However on appeal by the Public Service Commission, the Court of Appeal held that the amendment applied, and that the Public Service Act applied to contracts as far as it was amended. Furthermore, the Court held that the amendment operated to the future, to affect public servants if they register as a public servant, therefore and was not retrospective.

(d) Tapueluelu and anor v Attorney General*, AC 18/13

This was an appeal against fines imposed by the Lord Chief Justice on an editor and publisher of the Kele'a newspaper, for committing contempt of court by printing an article criticising the judgment of a magistrate in a criminal defamation case, alleging that the magistrate was controlled by Government and was bias. The Lord Chief Justice held that parts of the article scandalised the magistrate, and convicted both appellants for contempt. He then imposed a fine of $2,500.00, on each of the accused, and required them to pay the fine within one month, in default they would be imprisoned for one month.

The appellants appealed against their sentence only. The Court of Appeal held that the Lord Chief Justice failed to consider the circumstances of the appellants when imposing the fines, and also to recognise that the responsibilities of the editor and publisher are different and so they have different levels of culpability. The Court then refused the appeal of the editor and accepted that the fine was appropriate, but accepted the appeal of the publisher, and reduced her fine to $500 only. Costs were then ordered to be borne by each party.

(e) Manu and anor v Rex,* AC 1-2/14

This was an appeal to the Court of Appeal by a police officer and a co-accused against conviction for importing Contact NT, with a Chinese co-accused. The appeals against conviction were based on procedural unfairness, the lack of evidence of knowledge of the presence of Contact NT that was concealed inside the base of small kitchen bowls, and that the packages were interfered with before receipt by the accused. The appeals against sentence was based on the grounds that imprisonment sentence for the accused police officer was excessive, and that the trial judge should have imposed a fine as an alternative sentence to imprisonment.

There was an earlier importation which was received by the accused police officer, however that was intercepted by New Zealand Customs in Auckland, and replaced the Contact NT with placebo. The appellants were charged with attempted importing for that first importation, but they were acquitted on that charge because the prosecution could not call the New Zealand Customs officer who had intercepted that first shipment. The police officer was sentenced to 5 years and 4 months imprisonment, and the Chinese co-accused was sentenced to 10 months imprisonment, for his lesser involvement.

The Court of Appeal dismissed the appeals on convictions by holding that there was no procedural unfairness. Further, there was sufficient evidence that both accused knew of the presence of the Contact NT in the kitchen bowls. Evidence that the package was tampered with before receipt was not proven, nor was it raised in the trial.

The Court of Appeal also dismissed the appeals on sentence. The Court held that fines were not appropriate for drugs importation with a commercial aspect. Further, the mitigation factors were fully considered by the trial judge, and that the terms of imprisonment imposed were appropriate.

(f) Tu'akalau v Rex*, AC 13/14

This was an appeal by the appellant against the refusal of leave by the Lord Chief Justice to appeal against her conviction and sentence for forgery, using a forged document knowing it to be forged and interference with the course of justice.

The appellant had received a complaint from a complainant involved in a traffic incident. She did not register or pursue the complaint, because she knew the accused. The complainant later complained to the Deputy Police Commissioner for the lack of action on her complaint. When the Deputy Police Commissioner asked for the file, the appellant then wrote out a statement purportedly made by the complainant, and included a statement that the complainant would settle the complaint if the complainant was paid some money as compensation. She then went to the complainant and gave her money as compensation. The complainant refused the money.

The appellant was convicted on all charges after trial before a judge and jury. The appellant was then sentenced for the forgery and using forged documents to 18 months imprisonment, which was fully suspended, and for the interference with the course of justice case, she was sentenced to 6 months community work.

The appellant claimed that the decision of the jury was unreasonable given the totality of the evidence. The Court of Appeal held that the jury was entitled to reach their verdict that the appellant had created the forged statement in order to deceive the Deputy Police Commissioner. This was because she knew the person who was being complained against, and that she was trying to get the complainant to withdraw her complaint. The application for leave to appeal was therefore refused.

(g) Kaufusi and anor v Rex, AC 14-15/14

This was an appeal against conviction and sentences for embezzlement and falsification of accounts. Both appellants, a male and female employee, were employees of the Westpac Bank of Tonga, who were tried with 6 others for the same offences. One appellant pleaded guilty after the Crown closed its case, and the other appellant was found guilty after trial. The other 6 co-accused were also convicted and sentenced, but did not appeal. The female employee was charged in relation to 19 separate transactions from 22 January 2011 to 3 January 2012, amounting to $30,917.60. The male appellant was charged with 48 occasions from 17 January 2008 to 30 June 2011, amounting to $41,301.03.

The male appellant, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced to 2 years and 8 months imprisonment, with 9 months suspended for 2 years. The female appellant who was convicted after trial, was sentenced to 2 years and 3 months imprisonment, with 6 months suspended for 2 years.

The sole ground of appeal against convictions was that the indictment was defective because it was duplicitous in containing a number of offences in one charge of embezzlement, and therefore the indictment breached section 160 of the Criminal Offences Act, which required that an indictment can only contain 5 counts of embezzlement for trial. The appeal against sentence was that it was excessive.

The Court of Appeal held that it was an accepted exception to the rule against duplicity when there is a case of "continued taking" or general deficiency", for the Crown to lay an indictment containing an aggregate count of the offences. In this case, it would have caused injustice to present evidence on all the transactions, but conviction can only be made on 5 transactions. Accordingly, in a case where there is a continued transaction, the Crown can lay an aggregate count.

With regards to the appeal against sentence, the Court of Appeal held that, in relation to the male appellant, the trial judge did not err in recognising the impact of payment of compensation, and also the length of suspension, based on the late guilty plea. In relation to the female appellant, the Court held that the trial judge did not err in the suspension period he gave. Therefore there was no error in principle, nor was the sentence manifestly excessive.

Both appeals by the appellants against conviction and sentence were therefore both dismissed.

(h) Mokofisi v Minister of Lands and anor*, AC 23/14

This was an appeal against the decision of the Lord Chief Justice to strike out the appellant's claim in the Land Court because it was time barred. The appellant claimed that he was the rightful heir to the land of his great grandfather, and that land was wrongly registered in his great granduncle back in 1929. The appellant applied to the Land Court that it should direct the Minister of Lands to use his inquiry powers under the proviso to section 82, which sets out the succession to land. The proviso provides that if a male land holder had failed to register the land, the heir could request the Minister to make inquiries and then register the land posthumously in the deceased male heir in order to allow the heir to succeed to the land.

The Court of Appeal however held that the claim by the appellant, who was not the heir of the last male deceased landholder, but rather is the great grandson of the last male deceased landholder, and therefore he could not use the proviso. Equally important was that section 170 of the Land Act provides a statutory limit for claims to be made within 10 years of the right accrued to sue. The claim should have been made before 1939. The appeal was then dismissed with costs.

(i) Ve'ehala v Kingdom of Tonga*, AC 25/14

This was an appeal against the decision of the Lord Chief Justice to strike out the claim of the appellant on the basis that it was a public law claim, and that it was filed without leave of the Court. The appellant, a former police officer, claimed that his claim was of private law for unlawful dismissal as a police officer under the repealed Police Act.

The Court of Appeal held that the appellant's claim was properly filed as a private claim, and although based on statute, it did not bar private claims to be made based on statute. The statue provided the terms of employment, and the dismissal processes required fairness and natural justice to be applied. The appellant's claim was reinstated for the pleadings to be closed. The appellant was granted costs in the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court.

(j) Pedras v Prime Minister and ors*, AC 26/14

This was an appeal against the decision of the Lord Chief Justice dismissing the application by the appellant for judicial review, against a removal order to remove him from the Kingdom, issued by the Immigration authorities under the Immigration Act. The Immigration authorities had issued the removal order on the basis of information received from the US Government that the appellant was subject of an arrest warrant and indictment for wire fraud. The appellant however claimed that the Immigration authorities had not fully complied with the procedures set out by the Immigration Act, because he was denied a right to appeal against the deceleration that he was an undesirable immigrant, although he did appeal against his removal order. The appellant also claimed that the Crown should not have used the removal process but should have used the extradition process.

The Court of Appeal agreed with the appellant in so far that the Immigration authorities did not comply with the Immigration Act. It held that after the Acting Prime Minister declared the appellant as an undesirable immigrant, making the appellant a prohibited immigrant under the law and his presence unlawful, the Immigration authorities should have made another declaration that the appellant was a prohibited immigrant, rather than removing him after the Acting Prime Minister's declaration. That declaration allowed the appellant a first right of appeal. If he failed that first appeal, then he could be removed, subject to a second appeal. The Court of Appeal however refused the argument that the extradition process should have been used, because that was an entirely different process initiated by a request for extradition, and it was up to the authorities as to what process was applicable.

The appellant's appeal was allowed, and costs in the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court were awarded to the appellant. His claim for damages will continue in the Supreme Court. The Crown is waiting for an extradition request from the United States authorities.

(k) Tupouniua v Supervisor of Elections and ors*, CV 80/14

This was an urgent judicial review by the applicant for the refusal by the respondents to allow him to register as a candidate to the upcoming national elections on 27 November 2014.

Under clause 65 of the Constitution no person who has an outstanding Court order against him for the payment of money can be nominated and registered as a candidate. Section 9 of the Electoral Act then adds a requirement that written clearances must be provided from the Supreme Court and Magistrate's Court to confirm that a candidate is not disqualified under clause 65. Section 9 of the Electoral also provided that nominations will close at 3pm on the date or dates for nominations.

The applicant had an outstanding Court order to pay to the ANZ Bank a debt since 2008. The applicant was disqualified from standing as a candidate for the 2010 national elections due to the non-payment of this debt. The applicant paid a portion of his debt which the ANZ Bank accepted as satisfaction for the debt. A letter was then given to the applicant to take to the Supreme Court to obtain his written clearance. The written clearance from the Supreme Court was not issued until around 3.30pm. Around 3.05pm however the applicant went to the respondents and requested that he be registered late. The respondents refused because the applicant had not complied with the statutory requirements.

The Supreme Court however held that such refusal was wrong, and that under the exceptional circumstances, the respondent knowing that the applicant had paid his debt, should have accepted the late nomination.

The respondents have decided to appeal this ruling on the basis that the statutory provisions do not give the respondents any room for discretion to accept late registrations.

6 LEGAL SECTOR INITIATIVE / PROJECTS

The following were the legal sector initiatives for 2014:

(1) TONGA LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES COMMITTEE

In July 2014, His majesty's Cabinet approved the signing of the Memorandum of Understanding for the Tonga Law Enforcement Agencies Committee to provide for information sharing, and the collaboration and cooperation in the investigation and prosecution of serious crimes, particularly economic crimes such as money laundering and serious fraud, and transnational crimes such as illicit drugs trafficking, illegal fishing, human trafficking and people smuggling.

(2) TONGA LAW REPORTS

In September 2014 the Office released the 2012 Tonga Law Reports for purchase by the legal profession and the public. The Office hopes to complete the 2013 Tonga

Law Reports in early 2015, and then print the 2014 Tonga Law Reports in mid-2015. Thereafter, it is hoped that the Tonga Law Reports will be printed annually.

(3) 7TH ANNUAL LAW WEEK 2014

In the first week of November 2014, the Office conducted the 8th Annual Law Week, with a theme of "Law and Elections". The focus was on educating and reminding the public of the electoral offences prohibited by the electoral laws, especially election bribes. The Office published in the main newspapers a list of the electoral offences, and also conducted radio talkback during the week which proved very popular with listeners, although most of the questions sought clarification on titles to land and succession, and also adoptions and guardianships. The programmes were funded with assistance from the New Zealand High Commission head of Mission Fund.
