“36 Analyst certificate
(1) In any proceedings under this Act, the production of a certificate purporting to be signed by an analyst shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

(2) Such a certificate shall only be admissible under sub-section (1) if a copy of the analyst’s certificate has been served by or on behalf of the prosecution on the accused or his counsel and at the same time the accused or his counsel has been served with a written notice that the prosecution does not propose to call the analyst as a witness.

(3) Should the Accused engage new counsel it will be the responsibility of the counsel in sub-section (2) to ensure the documents served in sub-section (2) are delivered to the accused or his newly engaged counsel.

(4) The accused shall give written notice to the prosecution not more than 30 days after being served with the analyst’s certificate that he requires the person who made the analysis to be called by the prosecution as a witness and provide reasonable grounds as to why the analyst is required to be called as a witness.

(5) If the Accused challenges the facts in the analyst certificate in sub-section (1), and requires further analysis or testing, the Accused shall bear the costs of such further analysis or testing, if he is subsequently convicted of any offence to which the analyst certificate relates.

(6) If the Accused required the person who made the analysis or the analysts certificate to give evidence pursuant to subsection (4), the Accused shall bear the costs of the analyst giving evidence, if he is subsequently convicted of any offence to which the analyst certificate relates.”.

25 New section 37A and 37B inserted
The Principal Act is amended by inserting the following new section 37A and 37B —

“37A Destruction of evidence in relation to commission of an offence
(1) Any person who knowingly conceals or destroys any article, substance, goods or property capable of being used as evidence in relation to commission of an offence under this Act, shall be liable upon conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 15 years.
